

Mangetti National Park Concession

The Mangetti Hunting Concession is situated in north-eastern Namibia, in the Kavango West Region, within the Mangetti National Park and the nearby Kavango West community areas. This hunting area covers more than 2 million acres.

This concession is well known for its community-based conservation model, where regulated trophy hunting supports local livelihoods and effective wildlife management. Mangetti National Park has a very high population of big and dangerous game, including elephant, black rhino, and leopard.

Elephant hunts in this area are conducted in the traditional way, through on-foot tracking. It is a magnificent area for elephant and leopard hunting and is ideal for hunters who value conservation and community impact.

Experience the privilege of true Africa, where every track tells a story. Where ethical hunting meets true wilderness.

Hunt with purpose, hunt Mangetti.
